Spokane Company Offers Affordable Healthcare Solution
On Stage Health – transforming healthcare for patients and physicians

Spokane, WA – March 2010 - For a low, monthly fee, participants can receive primary healthcare from participating established physician groups with no co-payments, deductibles or co-insurance. Previously a healthcare administrator, owner Brad Davis understands the ins and outs of patient care from both sides of the relationship.

The membership-based aspect of On Stage Health is beneficial to the patient because of its reasonable cost and lack of co-payment, deductible and co-insurance. In addition, there are no restrictions for pre-existing conditions and the plan can be canceled at any time. Payments are made on a monthly basis.

The benefit to the physician group is much the same, as there are no claim forms, no coding and no billing for services. There is more time for the patient, which is where doctors really want to focus their time and energies.

That's not to say that the plan doesn't blend well with established insurance and can even mesh with already existing employer plans. "It works on a lot of different levels and can be tailored for individuals, companies and organizations of all sizes," adds Davis.
